SR. DIRECTOR OF DEVELOPMENT AND DONOR RELATIONS

Regina LeValley is a storyteller and nonprofit development leader who brings lived experience, curiosity, and strategic vision to her work. As the Senior Director of Development and Donor Relations, she oversees grant management, major gifts, donor strategy, fundraising initiatives, and grant reporting. She partners closely with the leadership and staff to shape funding strategies that are grounded in real-world impact and resonate with funders.

Regina joined VetJobs and Military Spouse Jobs in July 2024 as a Grant Specialist and quickly grew into her current leadership role. What began as a single grant-focused position has since evolved into a growing development function, helping lay the foundation for a department built to support the organizations' expanding vision and long-term funding goals.

A caregiver to both her four children and her husband, a disabled Army veteran, Regina's work is deeply shaped by personal experience. Although her husband has been out of the military since 2012, the long-term impacts of service and caregiving continue to shape her life, perspective, and the way she leads.

Regina is currently completing her Master's in Nonprofit Management at the University of Central Florida, with a focus on fundraising and grant writing. A lifelong learner and storyteller, she finds inspiration through audiobooks, music, and time at Disney.
